TO GUARD THE SUFFRAGE.

Since the free ballot is the basis of all our free institutions, says the New York Tribune, it has come to be no longer a matter of local or state interest only, but a national necessity, to provide for the purity of the suffrage. In the nation's childhood it worked well enough to suffer each state to fix for itself the safeguards as well as the terms of suffrage. But the fact has long been recognized that this system is entirely illogical, dangerous to the rights of individual citizens, and pregnant with peril to the interests of the nation.

The citizens of the United States, as matters now stand, may or may not be a sharer in the governing powers. Each state determines for itself; if it happens to be a resident of one state he is denied the suffrage because he does not comply with conditions which are not required at all across an imaginary line in a different state. Here he must have property; there he need have none. He must be a taxpayer; there he need not. Here he must be able to read or write; there he may vote without ability to do either. In some states the residence of one or two years is required; in others it is not. In some states the immigrant must first be naturalized; in others he can vote as soon as he has declared his intention to become a citizen. Viewed without regard to the habits of thought which have grown up with all, this state of things is incredibly foolish, and almost inconceivably dangerous.

But such differences as these the constitution recognizes by providing that those only may vote for members of congress who have "the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State Legislature." Amendment of the constitution in that particular would now be difficult. It is a matter of even greater importance that, without any constitutional requirement, the methods of voting and of ascertaining and guarding the right of suffrage are left almost entirely to the states. The United States election laws hitherto passed being framed for a limited purpose, do in effect provide for appointment of certain officers who shall see that provisions of state law are faithfully observed, but it is nevertheless left to state law alone to determine what "act shall be done" or what proof submitted as a prerequisite. In some states the methods prescribed do in effect disfranchise many citizens. In some the right to vote is carefully ascertained and guarded; in others there is no care about any part of the business, and no real protection against fraud. It would seem incredible, if custom had not habituated the people to this absurdity, that a great nation should thus leave the ascertainment and protection of its voting power for presidential electors and members of congress to the varying whims of thirty-eight legislatures.

The "great constitutional lawyers" who infest Washington will discover many obstacles in the way, no doubt, if anybody proposes that the United States should in any manner regulate the suffrage. But it would seem to be expressly in accordance with the constitution to enact that a person, before voting for a member of congress or presidential elector, shall prove that he has "the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislature," and shall submit that proof to an officer created and setting under United States law. The constitutional requirement carries with it the power and duty to provide that it shall not be disregarded, either by the neglect of any state legislature or by the neglect or misconduct of any state official.

The Michigan republican legislative caucus at Lansing, yesterday, nominated James McMillan for United States senator, the nomination being by acclamation. Mr. McMillan was born at Hamilton, Ontario, and will be 51 years of age May 12, 1839. He is the second son of a family of seven children. His father and mother both emigrated directly from Scotland to Canada; his father was long connected with the Great Western railway. James received a course in the Hamilton grammar school, coming to Detroit when 14 years of age, he was for six years engaged in mercantile pursuits, when he was appointed purchasing agent of the Detroit and Milwaukee railroad, being then but 20 years of age. In 1864 he with others formed the now famous Michigan Car Company corporation, and from it has sprung the Detroit Car Wheel Company, the Baugh Steam Forge Company, and the Detroit Iron Furnace Company. Mr. McMillan being president of them all, the several establishments doing an annual business of $5,000,000, and employing 3,000 men. He is also president of the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic Railway, which has with associates built. He has a large ownership in the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation Company and other lake navigation enterprises. He is a director in the First National Bank of Detroit, and the Detroit Savings Bank. He is noted for his donations to charitable and educational institutions, and within the past year has jointly, with John S. Newberry, built the Grace Free Hospital at Detroit at a cost of $200,000, a charity memorial to his deceased daughter, Grace. Mr. McMillan is without legislative or executive experience, but has long been an ardent republican of prominence, and was two years ago chairman of the state central republican committee managing the campaign with rare tact and ability. He enjoys the confidence and respect of all the people of Michigan with an innumerable host of personal friends.

The telegraph advices from Colorado indicate that Edward O. Wolcott is in the lead in the contest for the United States senatorship, and will go into the republican caucus with more votes than any other candidate can muster. Mr. Wolcott has visited New York a number of times in recent years, and has a large number of friends in that city, especially among the alumni of Yale, his alma mater. These friends have received such information from Denver that they are confident of Mr. Wolcott's success, if they are not disappointed, the senate will receive an important accession to its group of orators. Mr. Wolcott is a speaker of eloquence, wit and humor, as all the readers of his brilliant speech before the New England society in New York a year ago will readily testify.

LATER—A dispatch from Denver states that the republican caucus held last evening, Mr. Wolcott was nominated, receiving 42 votes on the first ballot, Bowen 15 and Tabor 1.

The announcement of the classification of the railway mail service so as to bring it under the operation of the civil service rules, is probably the last grasp of the present administration on the subject of the reform so widely heralded four years ago. There is a possibility yet that Mr. Cleveland may have something to say about it in a special message, but prudence would appear to dictate silence as his best policy. The country has had all the experience it wants of democratic civil service reform. Now let it be buried out of sight.

One of the smartest western towns growing is Gladstone, Michigan. Fourteen months ago it began to be, and was named after the grand old man. Today it has 2,000 inhabitants, the principal streets are paved with cedar blocks, there is a complete fire apparatus, a $4,000 town hall, an electric light plant, five churches, three school buildings, two bank buildings, three hotels, six manufacturing, one weekly newspaper, and fifty business houses, representing the various branches of trade.

When Secretary Bayard casts his eyes over the breakfast table at which he is entertaining the diplomatic corps, remarks the New York Tribune on New Year's morning, and perceiving that the German minister's glass is empty, asks in his most hospitable manner, "Won't you have some more?" We hope that the wily representative of the fatherland will not misunderstand the question and reply, "I beg your pardon, Mr. Secretary, but we already have Samos."

ENGINEERS STILL DEMAND CONCESSIONS. Unless They Receive Them They May Be a General Tie-Up of All Western and Northwestern Lines Cost the Road.

STILL HOLDING CONFERENCE. CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—It is altogether likely that today's conference between the officials of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road and the grievance committee of the Brotherhood of Engineers will settle their differences one way or the other. Mr. Cavaner, chairman of the grievance committee, said in an interview that the Richmond convention had decided that the "Q" strike must be brought to an issue. He declared that the financial support of the Brotherhood would never be withdrawn from the strikers, and that certain of their demands must be conceded by the company before a settlement could be reached. What these demands are he refused to say, except that they required that the Brotherhood men be taken back as fast as vacancies occur.

Mr. Cavaner was hopeful of good results from this morning's conference, but declared that if the company would not make the concessions demanded, the trouble would continue. This problem means that a general tie-up of all Western and Northwestern roads will be the result. Such a move, it is believed, would be fatal to railroad interests, especially to those of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, and could not last long. Mr. Cavaner said that the Brotherhood had consulted legal authorities and were not afraid of jail or conspiracy laws.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—The engineer's strike has been a costly one to the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company, and although it has achieved a complete victory and gained all the points for which it contended, yet it is doubtful whether the company would not have been better off in the end had it made some concessions at the beginning of the conflict and averted the strike. The trouble came at a time when the company could not well afford to stand the heavy losses the strike entailed upon it. Business was exceedingly dull and rates low, and its earnings from January 1 to the commencement of the strike had decreased over $200,000. It was no doubt for this reason that the company accepted the strike rather than to grant the increase in salaries demanded by its men.

To make a correct showing of what the strike has cost the company is impossible. The only way by which an approximate estimate can be made is to take the decrease in net earnings this year as compared with last and then make due allowance for what the decrease from natural causes would have been had there been no strike. As stated above, the decrease in net earnings from January 1, 1888, to the beginning of the strike amounted to $2,000,000. As there was no perceptible improvement in business or rates up to the end of August it is fair to presume that the additional decrease in the earnings of the company would have been about $1,500,000. Therefore, deducting the $3,500,000 which, it is estimated, the company would have lost had there been no strike from the above amount, there remains a loss of about $3,000,000 that can be attributed directly to the strike. The company's officials estimate their loss on account of the strike at about $2,000,000, but this is no doubt a mistake, as the loss during the first month of the strike alone exceeded $1,700,000, and the losses for the succeeding three months averaged about $500,000. Consequently the estimate that the strike cost the company about $3,000,000 is not too high.

His liabilities are estimated at $35,000 and his assets at $10,000. Of which $4,000 is secured by deed of real estate and $5,000 was borrowed on indorsed paper. Reynolds is the contractor for the new United States court house, now about three-quarters completed, and the new theater just completed. The bulk of the loss will fall on parties in Chicago and elsewhere who have furnished material for the Government building. Reynolds has been a successful contractor, but the last two jobs were too big for him.

TARIFF DISCUSSION IN THE SENATE.
The House Considers the River and Harbor Bill—Several Important Resolutions and Measures Introduced in Both Houses.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—There was more than a quorum of Senators present when the tariff bill was taken up for consideration after the holiday recess. Among the petitions and memorials presented and referred were the following: By Senator Edmunds (Vt.), from a branch of the Woman's Relief Board, Salt Lake City, remonstrating against any action of Congress looking to the admission of Utah as a State; Senator Edmunds said he was happy to think there was not much danger of any such action at this session; by Senator Hoar (Mass.), to prohibit disfranchisement on account of sex; by Senator Sherman (O.), from the National Board of Trade, for the suspension of the purchase of silver bullion and the coinage of silver dollars; by Senator Hale (Me.), in favor of including in the next census statistics of surviving soldiers of the late war.

Senator Hoar introduced a resolution which was adopted asking the President to transmit to Congress any correspondence that may have been had with Great Britain concerning the seal fisheries in or near Behring's straits, especially as to the seizure of any vessel of the United States or other country, and what regulations governing the fisheries have been adopted by this Government. Senator Hoar says there have been and are still widespread complaints of unjust discrimination made against American vessels; that while they are not permitted to take seals out at sea, which is perfectly proper right, and which once is made with the operations of the vessels of other countries, particularly those of Great Britain, and he wants to know why.

The Secretary of State transmitted to the Senate the results of the vote for Presidential Electors in the States of Arkansas, Florida, Indiana, Iowa, Massachusetts, Nevada, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Texas and New York. Senator M. Nelson (Neb.) presented to the Senate the petition of the Woman's Suffrage Association of Nebraska in favor of allowing women to vote for delegates to constitutional conventions in case of the admission of Dakota, Montana, Washington and New Mexico. Mr. Hoar presented the petition of the National Woman's Suffrage Association praying the adoption of a constitutional amendment giving women the right to vote.

At the close of the morning hour the consideration of the tariff was resumed, the pending question being the amendment making the rate on yarns 35 per cent ad valorem instead of ten cents a pound. Senator Vest (Mo.) asked that the tariff in support of his amendment. He was followed by Senators Aldrich (R. I.), Allison (Ia.) and Vance (N. C.). Senator Sherman (O.) said that he found the tariff question intimately connected with the question of money. He would therefore consider them briefly in connection with each other. He thereupon proceeded to read a long speech on the subject of silver coinage.

Senator Jones (Ark.) read a statement of a Southern cotton manufacturer that his mills had been earning an average dividend since 1870 of 17 per cent. per annum; that he was an anti-tariff man; that if he could make the class of coarse goods sold in England he could sell them in England and make a profit on them. Senator Aldrich said that the reason the Southern mills paid such large dividends was that they did not pay tax on or at most two-thirds the wages paid by New England mills. Senator Jones was proceeding to discuss the question of tin plate when he was informed by Senator Allison that the Finance Committee hoped to be able to present some provision on that subject in a few days.

day after the first Monday in November, 1890, is named for the election of delegates and the constitutional conventions are to be held in January, 1890. These conventions are to frame constitutions which will be voted upon by the people on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1890.

The River and Harbor bill being taken up the appropriation of $200,000 for the improvement of Philadelphia harbor and providing that no part of the money shall be expended until the title to certain lands in the harbor shall be acquired by the United States, was amended so as to exempt from the terms of the proviso the $200,000 appropriated in the River and Harbor bill.

Mr. Crain's amendment increasing the appropriation for Savannah harbor from $200,000 to $300,000 was rejected. A long discussion ensued concerning the Texas appropriation, which Mr. Spooner (Pa.) criticized severely. Mr. Crain (Tex.), Mr. Grosvenor (O.), Mr. Stewart (Tex.) and Mr. Wheeler (Ala.) participated in the discussion which, for a time, was somewhat personal. Mr. Crain's amendment to increase the appropriation for Arkansas Pass from $50,000 to $1,470,000 was rejected. Mr. Crain tried to have the appropriations for various other improvements in Texas increased but he was voted down on each proposition. On a vote to increase the appropriation for a harbor of refuge at Portage Lake Mr. Cheadle, of Indiana, introduced a resolution, "and without transacting any other business the House at 4:30 adjourned."

Mr. Sayers (Tex.), from the Committee on Appropriations, reported to the House yesterday the Fortification Appropriation bill. It provides for an appropriation of $800,000, as against an appropriation of $372,000 for 1889 and an estimate of $5,520,000 for 1890. The largest item in the bill is: "For the purchase of submarine mines and necessary appliances to operate them for closing the channels leading to our principal seaports; for needful casements and cable galleries to render it possible to operate submarine mines; for continuing torpedo experiments and for practical instruction of engineer troops in the details of the service, $530,000."

VALENTINE BROS.

There are 20% acres of land in the third ward, nearly one-half of which fronts on two good streets, and can be platted into 30 good lots, worth $100 or $250 each; the balance, first-class for small fruits or market gardening, and all of which can be bought for $1700. Good reasons for selling at this extremely low price. There is in the investment, a certainty of a profit of an hundred fold.

A DAY IN THE COURTS.

Judge Bennett Decides Controversy Regarding the Four-Mile Bridge.

A Special Session of the Municipal Court Called by Mrs. Butterfield.

Judge Bennett heard arguments to-day in the case of the town of Janesville against the county board. It was claimed by the town that Rock county should pay one half of the expenses of rebuilding the four mile bridge, approaches and all. Judge Bennett ruled that the county could be asked to help pay for the bridge alone; and ordered the bill of the plaintiff dismissed for failure to comply with the law under which suit was brought.

Judge Patterson was hurried from his seat at the court last evening to hold a special session of the municipal court because of a river street robbery. Mrs. Molly Butterfield, who lives over the meat market opposite the rink, charged O. E. Green with walking out of her room with a watch containing a note on a Rock county farmer for $150; a certificate of deposit on the First National Bank of this city for fifty dollars; $48 of $50 in cash and a pair of diamond earrings.

Green was arrested about midnight by Officer Ed. Smith but told a very straight story and was not placed in jail. To-day he came before Judge Patterson and gave bonds for his future appearance in the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars. He was represented by Ogden H. Fethers.

F. S. Peterson and J. R. Blesedade confronted each other before Judge Patterson this afternoon and tried to see which would be first in swearing out a warrant against the other. The charge in each case was assault and battery, trouble having arisen regarding the rent of a barn.

A jury was drawn to-day by A. B. Chapman's suit against O. E. Andrews. Five hundred dollars damages are sought on account of the breaking of the plaintiff's thumb with a club by the defendant.

A MONTH IN THE PLAY-HOUSE.

Attractions That Are Booked for the Four Weeks Just Begun.

January To Be Strong in Melodrama—Jarban and Roland Reed.

January play-bills promise Janesville people melo-drama in abundance. The month begins, however, with Irish comedy, Charles Kinn Verner having been announced for to-morrow evening some time ago. The Detroit Catholic in a recent number says: "Mr. Verner's impersonation is fully in accord with the genuinely Irish gift of the character, and captures his audience with the warmth and reality that stamp his interpretation of J. Breen." The advance sale of seats for Verner began this morning.

To-morrow the sale of seats will begin for "Mr. Barnes, of New York." This attraction which will hold the boards at the Myers opera house on Saturday, is winning success throughout the country. In Buffalo where the piece was presented recently, the Star said of it: "Mr. Barnes, of New York," at the Academy of Music last evening, was a splendid success. It is an interesting story, a fine play, and admirably played by a strong company. Nothing but favorable comments were heard on all sides. The story is too familiar to need comment.

Mr. Gantner's novel is a household word. Of the excellent company Mr. McDowell has brought together, Miss Alberta Gallatin and Sheridan Black easily lead. Miss Gallatin fits the lovely Corcoran girl like a glove, and Mr. Black's performance of the Count is a masterpiece.

The booking for the remainder of the month is now completed. For Tuesday, January 18th, there will be the Union Square Theatre success, "Storm Beaten" and on the night following, the attraction will be "Lights and Shadows." "His Natural Life," presented by the same company—Monberry & Boyd—that scored so convincingly a success last month at McVicker's. Charles A. Gardner's "Streets of New York" will be given on Tuesday, the 16th, and on Saturday evening, January 19th, "Alone in London"; Julia Marlowe, the talented Shakespearean actress, is booked for Wednesday, the 23d, and the month will close with one of the strongest attractions of the season, the Lyceum Theatre success, "The Wife," Tuesday, January 23d.

For the months to follow, the bookings are not yet complete. Orison Clarke, nephew of Edwin Booth, is to appear in tragedy, and Cora Tanner will appear on March 4th in her new piece, "Fascination." Comedy will be furnished in March by Roland Reed in "The Woman Hater," and in April by Jarban.

A MOMENT OF MADNESS.

The newest issue of the popular "Moment of Madness" of American novels, "A Moment of Madness." It is a powerful story of tangled lives and motives. The heroine and hero are the central figures in a struggle where dishonor for them both seems threatening at every turn.

Without knowing whom he is seeking to injure, the man helps the police to follow out clues which, if successfully traced, mean the arrest and conviction of the very man for whom he would lay down his life. It is a novel as well as a dramatic one and full of startling situations. It is from the pen of Charles J. Bellamy, author of that very successful romance "The Breton Mills," and a brother of the well known author of "Looking Backward." It is for sale by King & Shelly, and is published by A. L. Burt, 56 Beckman street, New York.

WOMEN WITH PALE COLORLESS FACES who feel weak and discouraged, will receive both mental and bodily vigor by using Carter's Iron Pills, which are made for the blood, nerves and complexion.

THE MODERN WOODMEN.

The Social and Public Installation of Florence Camp Last Evening.

The public installation services and basket picnic of Florence Camp, Modern Woodmen of America, held in the lodge room in the Court Street church block last evening, was well attended, and proved a gathering of much interest to those interested in the order. The speech of the evening was delivered by Mr. H. G. Arnold, in the course of which, after calling attention to the origin of the order and pointing out the benefits derived, he said:

Neighbors of Florence Camp, during the 18 months since we were greeted as "adopted sons" and "esteemed neighbors," a kind Providence has dealt very graciously with us. Our numbers have not been broken by the messenger of death, and we can truly say, "all is well." We have a grand order; let us appreciate its worth for its usefulness to us. Let us be more frequent about its "camp fires," and throw out urgent invitations for our friends to come with us. When the founder of this order first drafted the plan, work for a separate camp was laid out, called the Ladies' Circle, but it never gained enough strength to meet the obstacles thrown in its way, so died in infancy; nevertheless we believe we are held in high esteem by the ladies, as is evidenced by their presence and the good things yet in store for us. In some of our neighboring camps the ladies not only look after the temporal needs of the neighbors, but also show a deep interest in the camp, and show a tender regard for some of the working tools of the camp.

Following this came a solo by Mr. Arnold, recitations by little Kate Fenton and Kittie Byers, instrumental music by the Pabst children, and a select reading by Mrs. F. W. Christman, all of which were well received and highly entertaining.

Officers were then installed as follows: Venerable Consul—Wm. Marsden. Worthy Advisor—Geo. Schaller. Esteemed Banker—C. H. Kneek. Clerk—A. S. Fenton. Escort—A. T. Shaffer. Watchman—Levi B. Caniff. Sentry—George Barrage.

A "basket picnic and social" followed the installation ceremony, and the evening was one of pleasure to all. Florence Camp is in a healthy condition and its semi-monthly meetings are a source of pleasure to the members.

STEAM HEATING OF PASSENGER CARS. To the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway belongs the credit for first having brought the matter of steam heating of cars into general notice; to that company belongs the credit of being the first western road which has brought its experiments to a successful issue, and to that company the traveling public will be indebted for its taking the initiative in equipping its principal through trains with this comfort producing and life-saving apparatus.

In order to explain the manner in which the cars are heated, the following is furnished by Mr. George Gibbs, Mechanical Engineer of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway:

The steam is taken direct from the locomotive boiler through pressure regulating and safety valves, which allow low pressure steam only to pass back to the cars, through the main train supply pipe, and thence to the heating pipes in each car.

The direct train pipe is tapped in each car by a branch pipe, which communicates with radiator piping along the sides for heating service. In addition to this, provision is made for propelling ventilating fans by an arrangement in each of "indirect heating" radiators, very similar to stacks in the cellars of houses heated by steam, so that the moisture of the train forces in large volumes of heated fresh air.

The feature in connection with a device used for automatically regulating the temperature to a fixed point, says 70 degrees, is the highest attainable degree of comfort in a changeable winter climate.

A QUAKER PRINTER'S PROVERB. Never send articles for publication without giving the name, for thy name often secures publication of a worthless article.

Thou shouldst not rap at the door of a printing office, for he that heareth the rap saucierly in his sleeve and loatheth time.

Thou shouldst never read the copy on the printer's case or sharp and booked container thereof, or he may knock thee down.

Never inquire of the editor the news, for behold it is his business to give it up to thee at the appointed time without asking for it.

It is not right that thou shouldst ask him who is the author of an article, for it is his duty to keep such things to himself.

When thou dost enter his office take heed unto thyself that thou dost not look at what may concern thee not, for that is not meet in the sight of good breeding.

Neither examine thou the proof-sheet, for it is not ready to meet thee eye, that thou mayest understand.

Prefer thine own town paper to any other, and if thou hast not already done so, subscribe for it immediately. Pay for it in advance, and it shall be well with thee and thine.

ANOTHER NOVELTY IN SLANG. "The 'chestnut' as a slang phrase, is done with, frost-bitten, quite, and an equally meaningless word has been substituted. It is 'dusty.' Do you admire anything from a stylish toilet to a dandy dish, you are privileged to say, 'there is nothing 'dusty' about that.'"

On the whole, when one takes time to consider, there is more sense in dusty than in the most fashionable slang. A dusty object suggests one whose freshness is depleted. Just how the "chestnut" was ever significant, no one has yet clearly defined.—January Table Talk.

A WEATHER SCANDAL PROMISE.

Winter Said to Be Very Likely to Linger in the Lap of Spring
